

Fr. Schaffner Lectures March 22 On Symbolism

The next in the series of Gorman Lectures at Loyola College will be presented in Cohn Hall this Wednesday, March 22, at 1 p.m. Rev. William E. Schaffner, S. J. will speak on the symbolism of the Baltimore Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, which has recently been constructed on North Charles Street. Father has planned for the lecture to be accompanied by colored slides indicating the different facets of the Cathedral's architecture, sculpture, and stained glass windows.

Father Schaffner is presently the Assistant Professor of Theology at Loyola, and the Chairman of the Philosophy Division of the Evening College. He received both his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Loyola University in Chicago and has been associated with Loyola College since 1952.

Uptown O'Neills

The Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, financed through the multi-million dollar bequest of the late Baltimore merchant Thomas J. O'Neill. It was dedicated in November of 1959 after four years of actual construction.

Cathedral's Symbolism

Father has been interested in the symbolism of the cathedral and this interest has led to his lecturing to various groups in Maryland on the subject.

The lecture is open to the students of Loyola College and the general public. All are invited to attend.

Curtis, Laukaitis Win Wilson Fellowships

By Carroll Herbert

For the first time in the history of Loyola College two of our students have received Woodrow Wilson Fellowships in the same year. The students receiving the awards are Thom Curtis and Bill Laukaitis. The latter is a student in the Evening Division. In addition to this, another Loyola student, John Jordan, received an Honorable Mention.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation with the cooperation of the Ford Foundation annually offers a thousand fellowships to college students majoring in the fields of humanities. The winner of one of these fellowships receives fifteen hundred dollars plus allowances for wife and children; the foundation also pays directly to the graduate school tuition and fees for the fellow.

Law and English

Thom Curtis, a B.S. Political Science major, is interested in entering the fields of International Relations, Law, or both. He is as yet undecided as to where he will use the fellowship. He is considering Villanova Law School and several International Relations graduate schools. Laukaitis plans to further his studies in English at either Duke or Northwestern.

Cultural Change

Student Council President Ken Gray announced that the Peabody-Loyola Cultural Exchange Program will be initiated on Friday, March 24. A vocal group from the Peabody Institute will entertain the students of Loyola and their dates in Cohn Hall at 8:30 p.m. The admission will be free.

Oops!!!

A typographical mistake in last week's issue of the Greyhound must be corrected. Miss Virginia Reincke will be the guest pianist with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra on Saturday evening, March 25. The program will consist of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and "An American in Paris." Tickets can be obtained from the Central Ticket Agency.

Nickel-Dime Stuff

Any student interested in a summer job should fill out an application at the Placement Office. The Greyhound has recently received information concerning summer jobs in vacation spots all over the U.S. Anyone interested should contact Frank Walsh, the Assistant News Editor, or send one dollar to cover costs to "Student Jobs," Weston, McMurtry, Inc., 50 Broad St., N.Y. 4, N.Y.

Sodality Holds First Campus Square Dance

On March 18 at 8:30 p.m., the Sodality of Our Lady will hold a square dance in the Loyola College gymnasium. The dance, which will last until 12:30 a.m., will have country music and will feature the melodious calling of Fred Shankin who was the caller at the Sodality mixer.

Chairman Cuneo

Carl Cuneo, the Sodality Secretary, will head the committee which will conduct the affair. The committee expects a good turnout for the dance, since it is the first of the semester and is on a very unusual and interesting theme. Father Knott also has hopes of making this "first" on campus a success.

Darling Duds

In accordance with the mood of the occasion, dress is slated to be informal. Girls should wear "flats" and dress comfortably and student escorts should dress informally and wear shoes without cleats.

Free Chips

In addition to four hours of "genuine" country entertainment and free potato chips and pretzels, Carl Cuneo can be quoted as saying, "For anyone who has not attended a square dance, usually it is quite enjoyable. If you don't take my word, ask any student who attended the mixer after the A.U. game."

Council Motions Less Major Tests

Among the motions passed by the Student Council at its meeting on March 10 was a request for the Dean of Studies to change the senior examinations from May 22-29 to May 22-27. This will prevent the scheduling of exams during senior week, which begins on Sunday, May 28.

Approval was granted by the Council to the junior class petition, which advocated that senior week dues should be included in the tuition bills for next year's seniors.

Less Tests

By letter, the Dean of Studies was asked to investigate the feasibility of having the number of full period tests, given each semester, equal the number of credits in a course.

For example, a teacher in a three-credit course would administer, in addition to the final, only three major tests during each semester.

L Day Men

Four students have been selected to serve as members on the Loyola Day Committee. The appointees are: Harry Leonard (fresh.), Bob Schoch (soph.), Bill Smuck (junior) and "Mole" Vitrano (senior).

Council members welcome all suggestions on how the students can participate in the Development Fund.

Editorial

There has been much discussion lately concerning the Peace Corps. We have recently received a release consisting of "a copy of the memorandum proposed by Mr. Sargent Shriver and submitted to President John F. Kennedy prior to the President's issuance of an Executive Order establishing the Peace Corps." We would like to mention some of the Corps' intentions affecting colleges, and college students.

Although there is no rigid age limit, the majority of Peace Corps volunteers will probably be young college graduates. Mr. Shriver points out that "U. S. college graduates could play a vital role teaching in primary or secondary schools and in trade schools" in many African and some Asian countries. Interest in such actions is present at Loyola, for several weeks ago twelve seniors inquired at the Placement Office concerning teaching opportunities in Africa. It is apparent, therefore, that, although such positions offer little lucrative benefit, some must nevertheless feel that the experience and other factors are worthwhile.

"The resources, energy and experience of our non-governmental institutions, including colleges and universities . . . must be tapped." This means that arrangements are to be made with colleges and other educational institutions, for the recruiting and training of volunteers and the development of "area studies and research programs." Many colleges are already under contract with the International Co-operation Administration for the development of similar projects.

The possibility of Loyola College participating in a Peace Corps program is certainly as great as any other college expressing similar intentions. Whatever the Administration's views are on this subject, we do not yet know; however we would like to hear the students' opinions, either through student associations or from individuals.

Dick Prodey reminds us that we said some pretty nasty things about his car last week, and we would like to pacify him by saying that the car has a very clean interior--probably because he leaves the windows open when it rains.

John Quinn tells us that somebody offered to buy Dick's car last week--by the pound.

Fred Koenig says that his father is so rich that he has two copies of all albums to avoid turning the records over.

Speaking about rich fathers, Mike Cataneo tells us that his father had an accident last week. He strained his back picking up his completed tax statement.

We suggest that the next time Lindsey Schutz and his Chess Club go to play a match in a local pub, they bring a board.

Murmurings are slowly creeping through the senior class about the doings of a certain Vernon and his friend Letitia.

Ed Conery is of the opinion that his landlord must have taken advanced ROTC at some time during his life. This thought occurred to him when, after coming home from an extended lecture last Saturday, the landlord told him to "Move out smartly."

That Smiling Soccer Star Tom Schultz

In searching through the faces of the thirteen seniors listed as members of "Who's Who in American Colleges," one cannot help recognizing the "winning smile" of a certain Loyola senior. The smile is not sardonic, or rather, not forced in any way. It is natural and by this very fact is more impressive than many of the others. It is the kind of smile that tooth paste companies make fortunes on, or that could characterize the old slogan containing the words "All American Boy." The smile in question belongs to Loyola athlete, Tom Schultz.

Tom has no special claim to fame, except for his brilliant performances in the four years during which he played defensive halfback for the Loyola soccer team. During this tenure with the booters, he has undoubtedly frustrated more scoring attempts than most kickers currently on the squad. But more than that, he has endeared himself to his fellow students and athletes as well.

Tom Talks

In his career as an Accounting major at Loyola, Tom remarks that he has had some minor difficulties.

Caught by surprise, Tom Schultz denies his fans that winning smile.

Though modest about the cause of them, one feels that perhaps his athletic participation, as well as his part-time job, were the causes. Former difficulties were caused by a participation in the science course about which Tom quips, "I hope the underclassmen will take a lesson from me, and not go into science, if in doubt."

The youthful-looking Mr. Schultz, while he has been listed as a softball pitcher (probably the best on campus) and a basketball player for the Moleskin teams, gives his first thoughts always to the soccer team. "I predict a winning team for the Loyola booters next year" said the smiling senior. His thanks go to . . . "Tommy Lind for the aid which he has given me through his counseling and constant good fellowship."

Wilson wouldn't give him a soccer ball, but Tom gets in some practice anyhow.

Let Me At 'Em

By John Q. Feller

As a prognosticator, I have failed to make the grade again. Everything that I said about drill last week goes double this week, i.e. unless we're lucky enough to be rained out again.

Contract Cancelled

I promised Vic Corbin to print his picture this week, but due to mechanical difficulties, I'll have to cancel my contract. Vic has a very good pix of himself, showing his outstanding diving form and I'll try to see that it gets in the April Fool's issue.

Why Robin Hood?

Nicholas Varga (he prefers to be called Doctor and not Doc) has asked me to add this one to my collection of famous Prof expressions: "Politically, I favor the Sheriff of Nottingham over Robin Hood." I suggest that you get a copy of Classics Comic Book to figure this one out.

What—Late Again?

Mr. Sweitzer, entrepreneur and what-have-you, gets the biggest thrill out of playing a game with his class during roll call. It's called, "Now I see you and now I don't." According to the rules, it seems that if you don't yell out, "here" loudly and quickly, the good Prof makes a little checkmark after your name, and docks you 2 points. That's almost as bad as losing full credit on an exam question because of a spelling error.

Books To Live By

Last week, I mentioned some favorite expressions which our 'dear' teachers come off with during classes. This week, I would like to pass on a list of recent faculty publications. You can still get copies of the books at Mac's, if you hurry.

Fr. Davish: "Saints Who Have Known Me."

Dr. Varga: "Wine, Women and Footnotes."

Col. Kadick: "You Can't Get There From Here."

Mr. Higinbotham: "A Hundred Ways To Beat the Numbers."

Mr. Pritchett: "Mein Kampf Mit Den Jesuits."

Dr. Weigman: "Why I Quit Basketball."

Mr. McDermott: "One Way to Woodstock."

Mrs. Wilbur: "It All Started With Eve."

Dr. Mair: "I Leapt Over the Wall."

Fr. Bourbon: "The Enemy Within."

Fr. Murphy: "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Mr. Kammel: "Zero: Is It Positive or Negative?"

Harbor Lights

If you don't have tickets yet to see "Music Man," you can't see it on a weekend night because they're all sold out on Friday and Saturday nights. If you do have tickets for any day, or you're getting them, you had better be on time: they refuse admission to anyone during the first scene.

If anyone misses that, he might as well sleep through the rest of it, because he won't know what's going on, or coming off, as the case may be.

Well, that's "Music Man"—don't be fashionably late, or any kind of late!

The Vagabond Players are presenting "Anna Christie," the O'Neill Pulitzer Prize winner of 1921. This will be in the Vagabond Arena Theater at the Congress Hotel, and runs through March 25.

Tennessee William's "Summer and Smoke" will be presented by the Glen Players at Towson State Teachers College on March 23, 24 and 25.

There will be a barn dance tomorrow night in the gym and can. Fulfilling requests, the Sodality will present the barn dance, and a large crowd is expected.

Don't forget Erroll Garner's coming to the Lyric on March 24.

Everyone knows what's at the movies; the same ones have been there for quite a while.

Two Students Take Grants

To be considered for a fellowship a candidate must be nominated by a faculty member. He is then invited to submit transcripts, letters of recommendation, and his own statement of purposes. After testing and interviews the final selections are made. Dr. Hands reports that he will be more than happy to assist Juniors who are interested in this program.

Paul Cawthorne, last year's winner from Loyola, relinquished the fellowship to enter the Jesuits.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By Dick Cooke

Last week, many athletic minded students here on campus were disappointed when John Heagney was not selected on the All-Mason-Dixon first team. This is by no means a reflection on his ability as a ball player.

Chosen All-Maryland

Heagney, having completed one of his best seasons here at Evergreen, was chosen on the All-State first team this past week along with such outstanding ball players as Bob McDonald of the University of Maryland and Dave Tremaine of Navy. From the nation-wide Catholic small colleges, Heagney was also named on the first squad. In addition to these honors, John has also received an invitation to play in the second annual Catholic-College All-Star Benefit Game to be played at Fordham University on April 8. The Greyhound congratulates John Heagney.

Freimuth Finishes Eighth

Sophomore Ken Freimuth returned from the Eastern Collegiate's at Princeton last week having placed eighth and twelfth in the 100 and 200 yard breaststrokes, respectively. Ken's time for the 100 yard event, although not his best time, was a respectable 1:7.8. His time for the 200 yard event was 2:29, just 1.7 seconds off the winning time.

Competition Keen

Considering the calibre of competition present at the Eastern Collegiate, Loyola's Ken Freimuth was very impressive in his effort. It is hoped that Ken will be able to return next year and fare even better.

Intramurals

By Sam Levin

With the intramural basketball league heading down to the wire, it is now evident that the champion will emerge from the game in which the Handy Six will oppose either the Moleskins or Lamar's Pagan's.

A Game That Had No Equal

Is there any way to describe the heroics of our faculty in last Friday's game? Spotted a 15 point advantage by the All Stars, the final score was 32-18 in the teachers' favor, or if one neglects the 15 point spot, they were out-scored by only 1 point, 18-17.

"Wiggles" Weigman and "Crafty" Colimore each totaled 4 points, while "Feed Me" Fortuna, "Murdering" McDermott, "Kool" Kammel, and "Cautious" Conlin each tallied 2 points, with "Feed Me" being fed into a foul shot for his third point. "Danger" DiBaggio and "Hips" Heisey each drew the point horse collar, though they each added much to the game. The contest was witnessed by a large and noisy crowd who enjoyed every minute of it.

Junior Bill Smuck gets in a little discus practice for the upcoming season.

Track Trouble

Hampered by bad weather and late classes, coach Bill McElroy's trackmen are preparing feverishly for their opener with Towson State on Monday, March 27, a mere ten days away. The Hounds just haven't been able to get in enough practice sessions to be in top condition for the Teacher invasion. However, the starting lineup is beginning to shape up and it looks something like this. Freshmen Rick Frampton and Denny Voith appear almost set in the distance events, and perhaps both will help out in the mile relay also. In the 100 and 220 yard dashes, M.D. champ, Arnie Sapperstein, reigns supreme. Soph Tom Kenney will handle the 440 yard dash, and probably will be lead-off man for the mile relay quartet. Returning hurdler Tom Vondersmith still looks like the number one man in his field.

In the field events veterans Bill Smuck and Rick Campbell are coming along well with the shotput and discus. Soph Dennis Lingenfelder will be the squad's top pole vaulter. The high jump and broad-jump line-ups, where a large group of promising newcomers are battling for starting berths, are still not definitely decided.

Loyola's stickmen prepare for next Tuesday's opener against Ohio State.

Loyola Nine Getting Set

Baseball coach, Lefty Reitz has a nucleus of 8 veterans returning from last year's team. Those who will form the backbone of the 1961 Greyhounds are: Phil Potter, Jim Kennedy, Wade Bowman, Mike Rose, Dave Carney, Nick Jackson, George Yurek, and Charlie O'Donnell.

Pitchers Lack Experience

Potter leads the pitching corps. Only he and Jim Kennedy have any mound experience among the veterans. Kennedy will also spend some time in the outfield this year. The newcomers seeking a pitching job are: Ed Burchell, Relmond Van Daniker, Bob Schnock, Charlie Nemecek, Ed Herring, John Kogler, Jody Satterfield and Phil Middleton.

Infield Scrap

Wade Bowman returns to lead the catching candidates. Pushing Wade are Al Schroeder and Satterfield. A very interesting battle is shaping up for the first-base job. Bill Falkanhan and Charlie Bree are both hard-hitting freshmen. Both show much promise, and the loser of the first-base battle will probably wind up in the outfield. At second-base, Charlie O'Donnell and Jim Nosker will fight it out for the job.

Mike Elliot and John Cambell are both flashing fine form at short-stop. Cambell has been showing well in practice. Elliot, a Hearst All-Star, is a good line drive hitter and smooth fielder.

Freshman Bill Kammer seems to have locked up the third base job and it will be a tough battle for any one to displace him.

Veteran Flychasers

In the outfield, speedy Dave Carney returns to his centerfield post. Nick Jackson and George Yurek, who caught last year, are also striving for outfield jobs along with Mike Rose, Steve Bogusky, and Jerry Groth.

Tennis Co-captain Don Torres hits an overhead smash during practice.

Netmen Plan Fine Season

The tennis season will swing into action on March 22, with a match against Lynchburg. Seniors Donald Torres and Tad Carper head this year's squad which has its sights set on a winning season. Returning also from last year's team are Dave Mulrooney and Jim Mohler.

Cummings Impressive

Freshman Alex Cummings has shown great potential in practice thus far. Alex was Loyola High School's number one man last year. Coach Vince Colimore has high hopes for freshman Cummings. The experience which Cummings has in the game will prove invaluable to the team this coming season. Coach Colimore is still undecided about the team's sixth singles player.

Freshmen Encouraging

Freshman spirit and veteran experience, the same able combination which led the Green and Gray's booters to a highly respectable season, should help the Loyola stickmen to complete a good year on the field.

The Hounds face a tight ten game schedule against such name teams as Johns Hopkins and Hofstra. The squad will see its first official action next Tuesday on Fenway Field at 3 P.M. against Ohio State.

Vets, Frosh

For consistent ability the Hounds will rely on a solid corps of veterans including senior Pete Powley, junior Jimmy Lamar, and sophomores Marty Pilsch, Marty Quinn, and Page Fried. This year Buzz Dietz, Jody McEvoy, Tom Milligan, John Mueller, Jacques Remmel, and John Stewart rate as top freshman prospect.

Coaches Comment

Concerning his team, coach Charley Wenzel has this to say: "We're a young team. We're relying mostly on freshman to back up our more experienced men. I don't know what to say just yet." The coach was well pleased with the turnout this year, especially among the freshmen.
